Dear Judge Nadeau,

I've known Chad Evans for approximately fifteen years through work and on a personal level. Chad start with us at McDonald's when he was only fifteen years old, and always been a self starter and a highly motivated individual.

Chad always had a great way with people, young, old, customer, employee, or friend, he always found time to say "hello" and strike up a conversation no matter how busy he may have been.

Chad's true side shows in the people he's helped along the way. Whenever anyone needs help Chad is always the person who steps forward and takes the person under his wing.

Chad is a kind, considerate, and caring person, and the best friend anyone could ever have. If Chad Evens was your friend, you had true friend like no other.

Speaking of stepping forward to help people, Chad while sitting in his living room heard what sounded like a car crash near his home, and ran outside to see what happened and could he render assistance. In typical Chad Evans style he pulled three men from a burning vehicle getting the third person out just before the car exploded. This is who Chad Evans really is. Chad is someone who cares about saving people , not destroying them.

As you decide Chad's fate, I ask you to please keep in mind his positive side, his caring side, his love for people and life in general.

Thank you for time and consideration,

Tom Seymour
