

To: Gov. John Lynch (NH)

Subject: Request that Maine and New Hampshire Re-Investigate the Chad Evans case

Letter: Dear Governors and Attorneys General of Maine and New Hampshire: ,

Chad Evans wrote to the Governors and Attorneys General of Maine and New Hampshire, on 9 November 2010 to ask that you, or your predecessors, re-investigate his case. More generally, all the circumstances surrounding the death of Cassidy Bortner on 9 November 2000 should be re-investigated. The 21-month old daughter of Amanda Bortner died in Kittery, Maine, and police rushed to the theory, within a few hours, and far too quickly, that Cassidy's death was caused by criminal acts, and second that Chad Evans was the sole perpetrator.

I write to support that request for a re-investigation of his case. There is no need to wait for the courts to act, as Governors and the Attorneys General of both states have the power to re-investigate cases. When your re-investigation learns more of the truth and determines that Chad Evans was wrongly convicted, or even probably wrongfully convicted, the Attorney General of New Hampshire should request the Strafford County Superior Court to vacate his convictions.

The truth about the Chad Evans case is presented, as much as possible, at his website at www.chadevanswronglyconvicted.org. If any law enforcement person, or other person, in Maine or New Hampshire disputes what's presented on that website, s/he may notify the Chad Evans Wrongly Convicted Committee at committee@chadevanswronglyconvicted.org or at 71 Sullivan Street, Keene, NH 03431, and those other views will be presented.

In July, 2010, Chad Evans passed a lie detector test and the results of that test are posted on his website. The questions were all related to the case in which he was wrongly convicted. He never spanked nor hit Cassidy Bortner.

In the interest of justice, please re-investigate the case of Chad Evans. One question to answer is: how did it happen that an innocent, loving and productive father and step-father was accused of horrendous acts against an infant girl he loved, and then convicted? As he wrote to you, he is willing to talk with any investigator, without restriction.

Sincerely,

Signed By:
